HIRING MADE EASY

The image shows three devices displaying the SmartRecruiters interface:

- Laptop (Top Right): Displays the 'Product Manager, Platform Integration' job listing. It includes a status bar with 13 NEW, 5 IN-REVIEW, 3 INTERVIEW, 0 OFFERED, 21 HIRED, and 21 ALL ACTIVE. It also shows a 'CANDIDATES BY SOURCE' pie chart and a 'TOP CANDIDATES' list.
- Tablet (Bottom Left): Displays the profile of 'Jacek Pulit', a Front End Developer at Lumesse. It shows a 'Messages (1)' section and a 'LEAD USER EXPERIENCE DESIGNER' job listing.
- Smartphone (Bottom Center): Displays the 'Job Details' for a 'Lead UX Designer' position. It shows a list of candidates under 'NEW' and 'IN-REVIEW' tabs, including Eric Pratt, Stephanie Leigh, Christopher Schmidt, and Karla Swedanson.

3,000 companies are now SmartRecruiters.

Big or Small, Any Industry

they all needed to change the way they hire

They all said “no” to the ATS.

ATS FLAWS

Not designed to help you source across channels

Unwieldy and poorly optimized candidate application process

Cumbersome experience & complex UI for hiring teams

Limited data as sourcing & hiring data is “off-system”

Sourcing, Social, etc NOT included Frankenstein experience & big $$ to integrate & maintain separate modules

Candidates drop out of process
Reqs are harder than needed to fill.
Revert to expensive outbound efforts.

Hiring Managers hire “off-system”
Black hole: No feedback for recruiters or candidates. Leads to a stalled process

Recruiters can’t find key metrics
The business gets frustrated when they can’t get answers. High anxiety for TA.

They chose a platform that reflects today's reality.
